FROM THE HOME FRONT
TALES OF THE SAFE HAVEN KITTIES
WEEK 263: MYSTERY KITTIES
NOTEWORTHY NEWS FROM WILLS

How you doin'?

Last week our little cutie, Freddie, went to her new furrever home. All us Safe Haven residents were sad to see her go but real happy for her. Also, Bogie, whose new name is Cisco, left the building yesterday, and we're all real happy for him too! I think he likes his new name, and I agree—Cisco is a real nice name for a kit!

Freddie

Cisco

And now I'd like to introduce y'all to my main men for this week: a grrreat pair of bonded kits. There were actually three of them who showed up south of Forks 'bout 7 months ago. And 'cause they're real nice kits, the family that lives there began feeding them and gettin' them to trust. After a bit, the people contacted Friends of Forks Animals to have them neutered, but at the vet appointment, they found that all three of them had already been neutered. No one knows where they originally came from or who they belonged to. It's kind of a mystery.

Thompson

We think they're all brothers, and they're 'bout 2-3 years old. They all eat together, play together and sleep together in a pile. And since they're all large cats (way bigger than moi), they make quite a pile! They really love each other.

Spencer

Thompson is a dark orange longhair tabby. He was real timid when he first arrived, but I'm thinkin' that's because he had a broken tooth that was real painful and needed to be removed right away. After he got his tooth pulled, he felt lots better (ya think?) and was much more friendly.

Spencer is a dark orange shorthair tabby with a white muzzle and bib. He loves to make biscuits—the kneading kind, not the eatin' kind. He's super bonded with Thompson.

Wilbur

And Wilbur, who we think is the third brother, is a longhair apricot tabby with a white bib, nose and chin. (And here I thought apricot was a food!) He purrs the most and loves to be petted. He'd be OK with goin' to a different furrever home, but definitely wouldn't object if a family wants to adopt a trio!

Wilbur, Spencer and Thompson

So if y'all are lookin' for a large, ready-made feline family of two (or three), you're lookin' in the right place. Just give us a call, make an appointment and come on down. I guarantee you'll have a grrreat time meeting these outstanding kits!

Thanks for listening,

Wills 🐾

p.s. One of our super volunteers just spent a buncha time reorganizing and updating our Book Nook—that's the shelter "bookstore" located in the A2 kitten room. It's where you can get new reading material for a small donation, plus your kitty fix—all at the same time! And if y'all have newer fiction paperbacks that you're looking for a place to rehome, bring 'em here!

p.p.s. I hope all of you marked your calendars for our big night—May 16, from 5 to 8 pm. That's our annual event, and they're a lot of fun! There's a grrreat buffet, with your choice of scrumptious chicken, cod or vegan pasta, with garlic mashed potatoes, salad and dessert. I hafta say, my mouth is watering just thinkin' 'bout all that food! There's also our traditional live and silent auctions with lots of grrreat items. Like I mentioned last week, our venue this year is C'est Si Bon, and you'll want to get your tickets early, 'cause seating is a tad limited. You can get tickets here at Safe Haven, Full Moon Candle Co. in Sequim, or Port Book and News in Port Angeles. Or you can give us a call at (360) 452-0414, ext 6. It all works!

p.p.p.s. Our April 16th spay/neuter clinic for low-income pet guardians is completely full! But I'm in the loop for all our special events, and I'll be sure to let y'all know when the next one is scheduled.
