TALES OF THE SAFE HAVEN KITTIES
WEEK 268: A TAIL OF TWO KITTIES
NOTEWORTHY NEWS FROM WILLS

How you doin'?

Before I get into my tail of the week, with apologies to Mr. Dickins (my assistant made me say that!), I'd like to share with y'all the kitties that have gone home since my last newsletter to you. First there was Arlo, our super friendly orange and white shorthair, who went home on May 28—y'all will remember him from my Week 265 column: The Downstairs Greeter. Next to leave the Safe Haven building were Nellie and Rocky, a pair of real cute 3 month-old kittens. Their two sisters and one brother are still here, looking for their furrever home(s). And a couple of days later, our almost-senior kitty, Rouge, found his new person, who was real excited to bring him home. And lastly but certainly not leastly, our grrreat bonded pair, Bo and Tina, aka Bo Jangles and Tina Fey, who have been inseparable since kittenhood, went to their new furrever home last Friday.

And here they all are:

Arlo

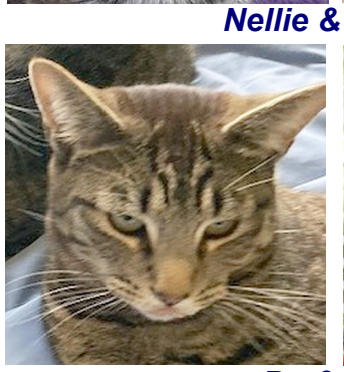

Nellie & Rocky

Rouge

Bo & Tina

Flora

And now, like I've been promising for 'bout half this column, I'd like y'all to meet Flora and Mona. These two kits might be related—we're not sure 'bout that! But even if they aren't sisters, they do have some things in common. They're both 'bout a year old, give or take. They both came to us via foster care. And now I bet y'all want to know: "why were they in foster care?" Well, that's the biggest similarity of all. They both had litters of five (5) kittens!

Mona

Mona's kittens were born in February, and just arrived at Safe Haven. Flora's kittens were just a tad younger—they were born in mid-March—but arrived a little over a month ago. And, drum roll, two of them, Nellie and Rocky, went to their new home a couple of weeks ago (see their photos above).

So the long and the short of it is that we have two grrreat moms and a total of eight kittens that are ready and waiting for their furrever homes. Of course, we believe that the kittens will adjust much better and be much happier if they go home in pairs. That's so's they can have a buddy / playmate in their new home. That's a real win-win for each kit. And their proud moms (that's Flora and Mona, in case you got distracted by the kitten story) are each ready for their furrever home too, having fulfilled their momly responsibilities and having been assured (via the spay procedure) that they will have their very own human family and won't need to go through the mom process again!

Thanks for listening!

p.s. One more thing: 'member the 25th anniversary special bottling from Harbinger's Winery? Well, we sold lotsa bottles, and there's just a few left. So if any of y'all didn't get to buy one, or didn't buy as many as you should have, considering the rave reviews we're gotten about our 25th anniversary wine, don't let the grass grow under your feet—just give Harbinger's a call and ask them to set aside however many bottles you'd like to buy. Then drive right on over and pick 'em up. They're still available at the bargain price of $32.67 (that includes tax). And you can tell 'em Wills said so!
